

China-Africa Cable Tray Trade

Overview

China, India, Turkey, and the United Arab Emirates are major exporting nations to the continent. Imported trays compete primarily on price and, for higher-specification products like heavy-duty stainless steel or aluminum trays, on technical reputation. China-Africa bilateral trade has increased steadily over the past two decades. In 2024, Africa's exports to China rose 10% from the previous year to a record US$99 billion, while imports from China grew 4% to US$179 billion. China's private sector is now likely to lead trade and investment in Africa, while new initiatives like the African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA) will promote the growth of regional value. Official statistics from China's General Administration of Customs show that trade between China and African countries reached a record high in the first five months of 2025. 4 percent year-on-year from January to May, to reach approximately $134 billion. BEIJING — The trade relationship between China and African countries has experienced significant expansion over the past 25 years, with total imports and exports rising from less than 100. CHINA and Africa recorded a significant boost in economic ties last year, with bilateral trade hitting $295bn in 2024, reflecting a 6 percent year-on-year increase, according to officials from the African Union (AU) and the Chinese Mission to the AU. Speaking at a policy briefing in Addis Ababa.
